The Alchemy dancers return to M. T. Pockets for an evening of original whimsical and evocative solo and group modern dance movement pieces with a food and drink theme!

Choreographed by artistic director Angela Dennis and performed by the 2005-06 company members and guest performers.

Angela Dennis

Choreographer/Artistic Director

Angela Dennis began her training at the David Hochstein School of Music in Rochester, NY, where she received the first Merit Scholarship awarded within the Dance Department. She was a member of WVU's African Dance Ensemble, a scholarship recipient, principal dancer, teaching assistant and choreographer with WVU's Orchesis Dance Ensemble. Ms. Dennis has studied with artists such as Michael McGowan, Sharon Butcher, Alan Sener, Bob Durkin, and Diane Lewis. Currently, she is a show choir choreographer, and co-director/choreographer for annual musicals at University High School. Angela has done guest choreography and performed works for Sally Ann's Dance Company, West Virginia University's Concert Choir and Fairmont State College. A former member of the Kitchen Sink Dance Company under director Michael McGowan, Angela is enjoying her fourth year of teaching at Morgantown Dance Studio, and her third year as Artistic Director of Alchemy Dance Project.

M. T. Pockets is pleased to have Alchemy Dance Project back for another presentation of original movement pieces. Audience members enjoyed their fall presentation, Moving Memoirs, and look forward to another evening of modern dance. Working with Angela and the company is always a pleasure. Alchemy is group of very talented and professional performers that are dedicated to their art and enjoy presenting as much as audiences enjoy watching.
